DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Walker et al (US 6,356,878 B1) (hereinafter Walker).

Walker discloses (see at least columns 1-20, but in particular 1-8) all the steps, methods, and systems described in claims 1-20, including coupling a processor to a remote buyer of maintenance, repair, operation services through a communication channel, storing in said processor standard maintenance, repair, and operation parameters, requesting and receiving at said processor specific buyer data from the buyer through said communication channel, processing said specific buyer data in said processor, calculating buyer's requirements responsive to said specific buyer data input and in view of said standard maintenance, repair, and operation parameters, generating at said processor buyer's request for proposal and transmitting said buyer's request for proposal to said buyer through said communication channel, and all the computer means and systems needed to perform the above steps and methods as described in claims 1-20. Walker does not teach maintenance, repair, and operation services or receiving information fields specific to those services, but he does teach the common steps and systems for using computerized RFQs over a network.

2. Official Notice is taken that the concept of applying an old and well known business method to any specific area of business enterprise is not patentable, as all the old and well known generic steps, methods, generic data fields, and systems have already been invented and could be applied to any enterprise, including computerized RFQs for maintenance, repair, and operations. For example, new patents would not now be given for computerized RFQs for ordering pizzas, automotive parts, or insurance services, as all the essential steps have already been invented, and only the name of the product or service would have changed, together with the related data fields peculiar to them.

Note is taken by the examiner that should the applicant find objectionable any statements made herein by the examiner regarding Official Notice, Applicant can make a proper challenge to those statements only by providing adequate information or argument so that on its face it creates a reasonable doubt regarding the circumstances justifying those statements: a simple response requesting a reference without doing so, or a response that fails to logically refute the basic assumptions underlying the justification, will result in an improper and failed challenge and those unchallenged statements will remain the record of the case. Applicants must seasonably challenge those statements in the first response following an Office Action. If an applicant fails to do so, his right to challenge them is waived.

3. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Richard Fults whose telephone number is 703-305-5416. The examiner can normally be reached on weekdays from 8:30 to 5:00.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Hyung Sough, can be reached on (703)-305-0505. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 703-872-9326 before final and 703-872-9327 after final.
